

a room

I live in a room.

I live in a room in a house.

I live in a room in a house I bought with my wife.

I live in a room in a house that used to be my family.

I live in a room in a house that I thought would house us for at least 10 years.

I live in a room in a house that I used to think was mine.

I live in a room in a house where I mattered and that I cared about.

I live in a room in a house that has been neglected.

I live in a room in a house that no longer supports love.

I live in a room in a house that has grown cold.

I live in a room in a house.

I live in a room.
