

Series of Thanks

Thank You, Life

Thank you, Life, for each sunrise bright,
For morning's gift, the soft, pure light.
For seasons turning, years gone by,
For every tear and whispered sigh.

Thank you for love, both given and lost,
For joy's embrace, for lessons' cost.
For moments quiet, and laughter's song,
For the strength to rise, to carry on.

You've taught me wonder, grace, and fight,
To find the stars in the darkest night.
For roads untraveled, paths unknown,
For all the ways my heart has grown.

For beauty found in simple things,
In children's smiles and birds' soft wings.
For hope that blooms despite the strife,
Thank you, dear, mysterious Life.

Thank You, Children

Thank you, my loves, for filling my days
With laughter and light in so many ways.
For every small hug, each whispered "I love you,"
You've colored my life in every shade, every hue.

You teach me patience, you make me strong,
Through all of life's lessons, where we both belong.
In moments of chaos or quiet delight,
You're the stars in my sky, my heart's guiding light.

For all the times you've helped me to grow,
For questions you ask, for wonders you show,
Thank you, my darlings, for just being you,
For dreams that you chase, for all that you do.

You are my purpose, my joy, and my pride,
A gift every day, with you by my side.
Forever and always, my heart will sing,
Thank you, my children, for everything.

Thank You, Husband

Thank you for standing steadfast by my side,
For being my anchor when waves collide.
Through every joy, each storm, and strife,
You've brought love and laughter into my life.

Your hands have built our dreams with care,
Your strength a shelter, always there.
In moments dark and battles fought,
Your kindness lifted, your wisdom taught.

Thank you for being a father so true,
For loving our children in all that you do.
The late nights, the laughter, the worries, the cheers,
We've woven a tapestry through these years.

For every whispered prayer, every sacrifice made,
For every silent comfort, and fears allayed,
Your heart, your soul, your every embrace,
Has given our family a sacred place.

With gratitude deep, with love so wide,
I'm blessed to call you my partner, my guide.
Together we've built a life so grand,
Forever grateful, hand in hand.

Thank You, Self

To the one who's carried every weight,
Through storm and sun, early or late,
For every hour you gave your all,
For rising strong after each fall.

Thank you for choosing hope each day,
For finding words when none could stay,
For silent strength, unseen yet bold,
For dreams you nurtured, brave and some untold.

To the heart that healed and loved anew,
And the will that fought, resilient, true,
For every sacrifice, big and small,
For lifting others when you'd nearly crawl.

So here's to you, a gentle embrace,
For each triumph, for every trace,
Of courage carved deep in your soul,
You've made the broken pieces whole.

Thank You, Lord

Thank You, Lord, for Your guiding hand,
For blessings I see and those unplanned.

For love unending, grace so wide,
A light that leads, a heart that guides.

For strength in trials, peace in pain,
For shelter through life's stormy rain.
Your presence calms my deepest fear,
Your whispers bring my spirit near.

Thank You for the gift of grace,
For every dawn, each warm embrace.
For the gift of faith that helps me stand,
For holding me gently in Your hand.

With gratitude, my heart is full,
Your love, my anchor, sure and whole.
Forever, Lord, I lift my praise,
To You, the source of all my days.
