

Future Being

Imagine your future,
a blank canvas.

Everyday you awake, you create,
painting with your thoughts,
your words and your actions.

Your imagination is your brush and the color of each and everyone of your emotions becomes the paint you use to master the master piece of your life!

Your future, is a work of art!

Triumph or tragedy,
city streets or Rocky Mountain majesty.
You decide.

The canvas of your future is not flat, sterile or cold.
It is alive!

With family, friends and colleagues,
teachers and classmates,
customers, neighbors and strangers.
Panhandlers with tiny cardboard signs,
or massive billboards that command your mind's eye.

Every driver racing
through every city street is a part of your masterpiece, and you are a part of theirs.

Together we create.

Every hour, of every day,
we manifest our destiny.

Our future is not fixed,
but it is linked
to the way we move,
the way we choose,
the way we win
and the way we lose.

For each action begs a reaction that requires its own satisfaction and in the wake of this chain reaction rises a question...

A question that lingers in all of the madness and beauty.

Can you hear it, your future being?
