

evening shower

the rain still stays even after the rainbow fades in the wake of an unfolding sun his emotions have been soldered through a plastic umbrella he can see the rain but no longer feel it reflecting happiness in his sad eyes the rainbow creates a colorful smile as the rain slides down his skin unable to penetrate his heart remains cold unable to retain the much needed warmth and even as the rain dries up rainbow long forgotten the healthiest of flowers refuses to bloom in the fire of a nebulous sun