

Today is Monday

Woke up dreading today

Mind aching in agony because it can predict today

Fridays checks are always gone on Mondays

Going to a job that I hate so much

The car decides it won't work today

But at least one of us can do that this Monday

Cab fares are sky-high, and I don't want to use lunch money

But I need to be at work today.

An honest work that barely pays

Did I mention that before?

Oh how I can't wait until Friday

Forgot to take my pills today

Blood pressure is through the roof, feeling an intense pain

Hey maybe I can go unconscious and take the day off today

Who am I kidding?

Employers would expect you to work even if you're bleeding out that day

How do I know?

Well it's happening to me today

I had surgery last Monday

And still had to come to work the next day

And now its Monday again

Wounds still healing

Customers are looking at me like a predator is looking at its prey

But I know it wouldn't end here

If only I can stray away

If only my job would give me a raise

If only I can go home with a million dollars one day.

But that wouldn't happen today

Cause today is Monday