

TRUE LOVE PAIN

Could It Be?

I quiver like an Aspen leaf
 Trembling in the wind
And shiver like a snowflake
 When I'm away from him
Then melt like springtime raindrops
 And glow like summer sun
Could it be I've found that special one?

I sparkle like a diamond
 When he looks in my eyes
And flicker like a candle
 When I'm walking by his side
I'm glistening in fairy dust
 And moonlight from above
Could it be that he's the one I love?

I giggle like a two-year-old
 When he brings me a flower
And blush with new-found innocence
 To think what might be ours
I'm smiling at the oddest times
 And the smallest things seem grand
Could it be I've finally found my man?

Our Time

2

I lay my head gently in your waiting arms
And your body moves closer to mine
Your fingertips caress my skin
As we begin our time.

Our time -
At the end of the day
When we lock the world away

Our time -
In the quiet of night
Making everything all right

Our time -
In our candlelit room
Immersed in love and perfume

Our time -
Just yours and mine
Our precious moments of time

I smile softly and kiss your lips
As you gently press yours to mine
And I gaze in your eyes and thank God
I'm alive to know the joy of our time.

A SEASON OF LOVE

Remembering and remembering and tears
When two as none reached for meaning as one
So tender - so young

So needy to hold, to keep each for our own
We searched for our reason as we entered the season
Not wrong - not right

Our plight. Leaning too hard and holding too tight
For loosing the other would mean loosing a life
The man - the wife

And the years. So many years of building and living
Soon to become our reason for giving
Our life to one

So the house that we built was kept in seclusion
And we denied our own dreams for the sake of illusion
That all was right

Trying so hard and caring so deeply - blind to the fact
That we were changing, slowly changing - growing apart
Breaking a heart

Then suddenly life rearranged every line
Of all we once knew and held to be true
Of love - of life

And we each became one as our season was done
So distant - so near - so sad - so dear
A season of love.

TRUE LOVE PAIN

Well, I've known love - And I've known pain
But, the pain of loving you just wasn't quite the same
It hurt so right - On those lonely nights
When nothing seemed to matter
I just held those memories tight
And though you're gone
Your love lives on.

Well, I've been cared for - And I've been alone
But you cared enough to let me make it on my own
It hurt so bad at first - thought love must be a curse
But now I'm strong and free and I made it through the worst
And though you're gone - True love lives on.

You're the one - Who gave me these wings
Are you listening now, babe, can you hear me sing?
Remember when you set me free?
You took away my heart and soul, then gave them back to me
And anyone with true love pain
... Feels the same.

Well, I've got memories - And I've got fantasies
But memories of you - Are fantasies come true
And everything I've gained - Came from this true love pain
So even though it hurts like hell - I'd do it all again
And though you're gone... True love lives on

And though you're gone... Your love lives on

Just to Know5

Just that I stood in the sand once
Just that my sails touched yours
For one short and unexpected season
I was washed upon your shore
By the Sea of everlasting love
As it's tides rolled over me
Leaving memories that were enough
To last eternally –
Just that I know the Sea is real,
Gives me reason to go on living.
Just to be able to remember it still,
Gives me courage to keep believing.

For perchance, in some other ship of time
That Sea, again, I'll find.